

(10) ABSTRACT

Active circuit elements for semiconductor devices are integrated with chip-scale bump-out beams. In some embodiments, regions of the beam itself are employed as part of an active element. The bump-out beam is employed to construct 5 selected components of the active circuit elements such as a resistor, an inductor, a capacitor, or an antenna for the semiconductor device.